Chicago Tribune

Founded in 1976 in celebration of the nation's Bicentennial, the African American Museum in Philadelphia (AAMP) is the first museum of its kind to be built by a major city.

- Get a first hand account of the African American perspective on the Vietnam War with Soul Soldiers: African Americans and the Vietnam Era.
- During Black History Month, AAMP honors the struggles and triumphs of millions of Americans of African descent through a diverse schedule of multi-disciplinary public and educational programs that explore African forms of cultural expression, and their links to African Americans within the region and throughout the African Diaspora.

"The African American Museum in Philadelphia is committed to telling the story of African Americans in all its forms: family life, the Civil Rights Movement, arts and entertainment, sports, medicine, architecture, politics, religion, law and technology."
